The process to elect the best firms began 6 months prior to the event and engaged a panel of 98 jury members composed of exclusively active general counsels with extensive expertise in the concerned markets and countries. The nomination process was based on suggestions made by the jury and international rankings. In order to establish the winner of the Golden Award, the nominated firms filled in a submission document that was presented to the jury that noted the firms and decided the winner. Both submission and participation of the nominated firms has been free of charge in order to ensure a maximum objectivity to the process.
