In a bid to make it a world class arbitration centre, Nani Palkhivala Arbitration Centre (NPAC) has announced the constitution of an advisory committee for its Delhi Centre.

The Advisory Committee for NPAC's Delhi centre will include Amit George, advocate and independent counsel, Renu Gupta, advocate and independent counsel, Shashank Garg, partner at Advani & Co., Moazzam Khan, partner and head (global litigation) at Nishith Desai & Associates, Shourav Lahiri, partner at Reed Smith LLP Singapore and Dubai and Vinay Pranjape, corporate legal head of Power Grid Corporation of India.

Arbitration is an alternative to the judicial method and is one of the major methods proposed under Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR). The Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 controls the arbitration proceedings in India. This came into force on 25th January 1996 and has been recently amended in 2015.

"We are delighted that a younger generation of leading arbitration and commercial lawyers will be joining us to make a positive contribution towards arbitration ecosystem. We are enthused by the ideas, energy and initiatives that this group brings to NPAC and we look forward to working closely with them," Arvind Datar, director at NPAC said in a release.
